PREFACE

2034356

Burke says that one who does not look back to his ancestors, will not look forward to his posterity. In Deuteronomy Moses admonishes us to "Remember the days of old; consider the years of many generations." Along that same line of thought, David says, "I consider the days of old, I remember the years long ago, the days of old, the things our fathers have told us."

Following this advice of the patriarchs that the younger generations of our family may know who their ancestors were and the goodly heritage they have left us, these facts, and traditions that relate to Capt. Samuel Barnes have been brought together. A very much larger book would be needed to tell all that could be written about the family.

This data has been collected over a period of more than fifty years, from an infinite variety of sources. These include family folk lore from my parents and grandparents, old dairies, letters, account books, day books, family genealogies, Bibles, town histories, church histories, cemetery inscriptions, vital records of towns and cities, countless books of history, numerous interviews with older members of the family as well as countless hours of research in our libraries.

It is hoped that the reader may be interested enough so that he will make an intensive study of some of these persons, places or events.

Some errors may have crept into the text. If you find one, please write to the compiler or some one of her family. To keep the genealogy as complete as possible and up to date, please send her any changes, additions, corrections or omissions.

This work is a humble tribute to our beloved grandparents, Benjamin Spofford Barnes and his wife Dorcas Foster (Kimball) Barnes.

ANDREW BARNES, THE PIONEER

The pioneer ancestor of this Barnes family is Andrew Barnes, who came to St. Johns, Newfoundland before 1750. The exact year is not known. His son Samuel, our ancestor, was born at St. Johns, April 29, 1750. Andrew was a fisherman whose home was in Poole, England. It is thought that his interest in fisheries led him to America. Of his early life we know nothing. His wife was said to be a Scotch Highlander, Mary Mackie, or McKay. The baptismal records of the church in St. Johns have been lost or destroyed, so there are no family dates. Poole is in Dorsetshire, England, five miles west of Bournemouth. It is an old town, a seaport. Many bearing the name of Barnes still live there.

In the church records in Newfoundland it states under date of Aug. 12, 1787, "Andrew Barnes Sen. of St. Johns in the Island of Newfoundland, Planter, sells for 100 pounds a plot of ground on which to erect a new meeting house." It is believed he came up to New England once when driven out by the French. He was living in 1788.

Andrew Barnes had at least seven children, five sons and two daughters. One daughter, whose name we do not know, lived in Quebec, a Roman Catholic. She was married three times and her first husband's name was Burke. Ann was the other daughter. She married Deacon Nathan Parker, a man of means for those days. He spent most of his fortune in building a church and for religious purposes. She was a very fine Christian. Their home was in Boston. Ann had five children, four boys and a girl. Nathan Parker was born in 1782, Jacob was a judge in Athens, Ohio. David became a Shaker. Of Silas we know nothing. Anne the only daughter married an Englishman by the name of Bulley and went to England to live. After her husband's death she came to Boston with her four children. She died after a few years and the children went back to England. As a boy Benjamin S. Barnes visited Sam Bulley in Boston.

The five sons of Andrew Barnes were Samuel, our ancestor, more about him later; John who had two sons; Andrew born in 1810 and Samuel; Thomas a West Indes sea captain; William who died in St. Johns; James who was lost at sea in 1796. James was twice married and had three children by his second wife, Martha, James and William.

CAPTAIN SAMUEL BARNES

Capt. Samuel Barnes was born in Newfoundland, April 29, 1750 and he was lost at sea in 1799 on the Goodwin Sands in the English Channel on what he intended to be his last voyage. He followed the sea from the time he was nine years old, or about forty years. His voyages took him to the ports of Lisbon, Liverpool, Marseilles, Bordeaux and China. He often wintered in Lisbon. At one time he was chased for three days and nights by an Algerian corsair and barely escaped with his life. Although he was a sea faring man he could not swim.

As a young man he came to Boston with Capt. Cochrane and visited David Barnard in Watertown. There he met Grace Warren, a sister of David's wife, Lydia. There on Oct. 2, 1774 Samuel Barnes and Grace Warren were married. They established their home with her parents, Phineas and Grace (Hastings) Warren. This was on Warren Street in Waltham, then it was a part of Watertown. The last of the family to live there was Miss Mary Frances Barnes, a granddaughter of Captain Samuel Barnes. She died in 1922.

Captain Samuel Barnes was at sea most of his married life. In his letters to his wife he writes with much affection and with very good penmanship. During the Revolutionary War he was issued a Commission by Washington, which Miss Mary F. Barnes had for many years, but it has now disappeared. After Capt. Barnes' loss at sea, his widow supported her family by boarding children from Boston. Charles Acres was one of them, he came to Boxford with Phineas Barnes in 1814. Each of the children of this family had a very good education for those days and they were excellent penmen. There were four boys and four girls, the oldest boy and all the girls died of consumption, unmarried. Grace Warren Barnes, his widow, died Feb. 27, 1831 and was interred in the Warren Tomb in the old Waltham cemetery.

Letters in the possession of members of the family indicate that Capt. Barnes was at Bordeaux Sept. 2, 1779 and soon returned home. He was at Liverpool Aug. 7, 1788, having left America June 24; at Quill Beef Oct. 9, 1789 and at Bordeaux Mar. 27, 1798. It is interesting to note in these letters that Capt. Samuel always signs his name - Saml. Also Grace is always Graisy or Graisey.

In a letter to his father from Liverpool dated Aug. 7, 1788, he says— "I received my brother John's kind favor of the first of June. Was happy to hear you were all well at Newfoundland. Our brother Thomas is gone to Barbadoes and London. I left my wife and family the 24th of June and arrived at this place the 29th of June. Am bound to the Cape de Verd Islands from this place and thence to Boston where I hope to find a line or two from you or my brother Tom or James. My being always at sea prevent my knowledge of any opportunity that might happen in my absence. My wife and children (six in number) were all well at my departure from them. My brother Thomas has informed you I dare say of the many kind wishes from my wife and her aged parents for your prosperity. Should be happy to hear from the family at all times. Happy should I be could I be permitted to visit my native place and see my aged father, family and friends. My kind love to my brothers and sisters. Am your affectionate and dutiful son, Saml Barnes."

From Bordeaux, Sept. 2, 1779, he wrote to his wife. "I take this opportunity to inform you that I am perfectly well and in hopes to see you soon. I have recovered part of my property and am repairing my vessel. I hope to see you soon after you receive this letter, never to part. Everything in France is favorable to America at present but the times are not settled here. Depend on your seeing me as soon as possible. My love to all my friends. Kiss my children for me. I shall soon see you never to part from my dear family until death. My Dear, I am yours sincerely you may depend. Saml Barnes."
To Grace Barnes in Waltham near Boston by Capt. Buviel.

From Quill Beef Oct. 9, 1789 he wrote to his wife. "I take this opportunity to inform you I am perfectly well, thanks be to God for it. I shall sail the first fair wind for the Cape de Verds and Boston where I hope to find you and all our children well. I can not sell the vessel here or get any freight for her to Boston or any port of America. You may expect me home about the first of December, if not sooner. The vessel proves good and strong. I hope Mr. Macneal has assisted us according to his promise. Your kind letter I found Sept. 2nd and have marked the contents, have paid every attention to it. Give my love to our father and mother, Brothers and Sisters and all friends. Kiss our dear children for me and tell them to be good. I have got a number of little playthings for them. My dear Girl be assured of my ever remaining your true and loving husband, Saml Barnes."

The last letter that I have seen is from Bordeaux Mar. 27, 1798. He wrote—"I take this opportunity to inform you that I am well in health but not in mind. My long absence from you is the cause. There is nothing to be done here with the American Vessels. Mine is laid by as I cannot employ her and my moneys lay at Paris. I hope shortly to be with you never to part. Capt. Cochran and his wife is with me in the same lodgings. I hope shortly to arrange my affairs here and join my dear wife and family. Kiss the children for me. I remain, Dear Graisey, your loving husband Saml Barnes.

The following is a letter written by Captain Samuel Barnes' wife Grace to her sister Lydia, the wife of Aaron Wood and living in Boxford, The date is April 26, 1786. Sister—these with my tender regards are to let you know that we are all well as I hope you and yours are. I have not heard from Mr. Barnes since he sailed. He met with no trouble on account of the vessel he lost. His conduct was much approved of by his owners. Some of them made him handsome presents for the care he took of what he saved out of the wreck. I have no news to write. Father and Mother are well and present their love to you and Mr. Wood. Times are better with me than I expected. From your loving Sister Grace Barnes.

So far as is known there are no portraits of any of this family. There are several pieces of china that our sea captain ancestor brought back. Muriel Spiller has a set of china that came from China. A Liverpool pitcher with Masonic decorations belongs to Mabel Warren (Barnes) Frost, The bowl that went with the pitcher was given to the Waltham Historical Society. A small Liverpool ware platter he brought to one of his daughters belongs to Nettie Mason Kemp. The writer has a small snuff box of his.

The children of Capt. Samuel and Grace Barnes were eight in number, four boys and four girls. Samuel was the oldest born Aug. 26, 1775 at Watertown and he died there May 1807 of consumption. He was a cabinet maker and made the portable desk that B. S. Barnes treasured. This was in possession of Dr. Benjamin S. Barnes of Shenandoah, Iowa. Samuel never married. The second child was Grace, born at Watertown Aug. 6, 1777 and died at the home of consumption June 12, 1837. The third child was Phineas born at Watertown, July 29, 1780, he died at Boxford May 4, 1856. The fourth was Andrew, born at Watertown May 29, 1783, he died at Newton Sept. 23, 1822. Mary was the fifth child born in Watertown, Oct. 28, 1785 and died there May 23, 1823. She was never married and died of consumption. She was very useful as a tailoress and beloved by all who knew her. The sixth child and the youngest son was Thomas who was born at the old home Dec. 27, 1787 and died there March 8, 1861. The seventh child was Rebecca, born Sept. 29, 1792 and died at the home May 20, 1822. She was sick most of the time for seven years with consumption. "She suffered much the last year but her patience continued to the last." She was never married. The youngest child was Lydia, born Oct. 30, 1794 and died Dec. 8, 1814. "She had consumption nearly four years and was confined to her room about five months."

PHINEAS BARNES of WALTHAM AND BOXFORD

Phineas Barnes was the oldest son of Captain Samuel Barnes to have heirs. He was born in the old Warren-Barnes Homestead on Warren Street in Waltham in 1780. Sometimes this was in Watertown, then again it is in Waltham by the changing of the boundary line. His mother was one of a large family, many of whom lived near by, but one aunt lived in Boxford where the Kelsey Salesrooms are now. That was Lydia (Warren) Wood, whose first husband was David Barnard, her second husband was Hon. Aaron Wood who died in 1791, and the following year she married a neighbor, Benjamin Spofford, who was a widower with two little girls, Sally and Polly. He lived where the Kelseys live now. The Waltham and Boxford families visited often with the result that Phineas married his aunt's step-daughter, Sally Spofford, Dec. 22, 1807 at Boxford and went to Waltham to live. Previous to this time he had bought a home place of 28 acres in Waltham. During this period he worked in Faneuil Market in Boston. They had two girls and a boy born here but she was homesick for Boxford, so the place in Waltham was sold and they bought a place in Boxford, next to her father's home. On the eight of February 1814 they moved to Boxford with their two little girls, Mary, 5 years old and Sarah who was 3 years old, their little boy had died.

Phineas Barnes was a fine penman and kept an account book most of his life. Elizabeth B. Sawyer has several of these books. From reading these books one can see how many different things he did to earn a living; he farmed some, helped on his father-in-law's farm, which adjoined his, did auctioneering, settled estates, built stone walls, did all sorts of carpentry as well as blacksmithing, assisting the smith who rented a shop he owned. Also he held many town offices some of which were selectmen in 1829 and 1833, town clerk 1828, 1830 and 1832. An entry in his records for 1821 states that he unheaded the powder and dried it and reheaded it. He always called and wrote of his wife's father as "Sir" and pronounced as though spelled Sire.

About 1830 Phineas and Sally moved to her Father's home. Before that the old folks had to be cared for, so it seemed best to move. Several years later her father went to live with his daughter Polly in Rowley, now it is Georgetown. The stepmother, familiarly known as Granny Spofford, lived on in the old home until her death in 1839.

From 1830 until after the death of Dorcas F. Barnes, wife of Benjamin S. Barnes, in 1911, this was a Barnes home. It was then sold to Chester Killam, who sold to Harlan P. Kelsey in 1926.

In the earlier days of the married life of Phineas and Sally there was almost always one or more persons who boarded with the family. In addition to this she had seven children to care for. It is no wonder she was never very strong and well. She died in 1850 at the age of 64.

As a young lady Sally, and her sister later, attended the Franklin Academy at Andover, Mass. at the time Peabody was the preceptor. (See "The Peabody Sisters.")

For more than ten years before Phineas died he was not able to do much on the farm. He had epileptic fits and would often say, "Poor old man, 'bout done." Another saying of his was

"The world's a cheat and all things show it,
I thought so once, and now I know it."

Phineas Barnes died in 1856 at the age of 76. He and his wife are interred in Harmony Cemetery, Boxford.

So far as is known there is no picture of Sally but there is an ambrotype of Phineas in an oval frame. It shows him as an old man, sitting with an ivory cane clasped by both hands. Elizabeth B. Sawyer and the writer each have one of these pictures.

The first three children of Phineas and Sallie Barnes were born in Waltham, Mary, Sarah and the first Benjamin Spofford. The last four children were born in Boxford, in the house nearest to Harmony Cemetery in Boxford. They were the second Benjamin Spofford, our ancestor, Lydia and Rebecca and Phineas Warren.

ANDREW BARNES of the THIRD GENERATION

Andrew Barnes is the second son of Capt. Samuel Barnes and the one we know the least about, probably because he died as a young man at the age of 39 years. He "had been in a weak state for several months and was attacked with dysentery and fever that ended his life." He married Sallie Deane who died at the age of 87 in 1867 or 68. She lived with her son Josiah at Manchester, N.H. and later with her daughter Harriet at Cambridgeport, Mass. There were six children. I. John Andrew was the oldest, he lived in Taunton; he died coming home from the Mexican War and was buried at sea. He married

Mary Frances Pattee and had three children, Charles Andrew, born in 1836, died in the Civil War; Helen and Georgianna who lived in Providence, R.I. II. Josiah Mixer, who was born in 1819. Josiah married in 1842 Elizabeth Ann Jones and lived in Manchester, N.H. There were four children in this family, Harriet who married George E. Chickering and lived in Lawrence, had two children. Mary (1851-1904) a school teacher in Manchester, N.H. and two that died young. III. The third son of Andrew was Samuel, born 1812 and died in Cleveland, Ohio in 1892. He married Sarah Cutler Blodgett. They had three children. At first they lived in Manchester, N.H. IV. The fourth son of Andrew was George, he married Sarah Jane Stevens, had one son and lived in Manchester, N.H. and Cleveland, Ohio. V. Andrew's fifth child was Ann who married Dennis Long and had one daughter Juliet, born in 1851. VI. Harriet was Andrew's youngest child, she married Jacob S. Merrill and had three children, George, Harriet and Martha. They lived at Cambridgeport, Mass.

THOMAS BARNES of WALTHAM

Thomas Barnes, the youngest son of Captain Samuel Barnes was born at the old Warren-Barnes Homestead on Warren Street in Waltham. This was the site of the original home of John Warren that was built about 1635. In 1837 Thomas took down the old house and the present one was built by him. Here he always lived and died in 1861. Thomas Barnes was married Nov. 21, 1822 to Adeline Lawrence who was born in 1801 and died in 1873. He was a market gardener and sold most of his produce at the Faneuil Hall Market in Boston. He always took an active interest in the welfare of Waltham. For many years he was an assessor, also a member of the school board. In 1823 he was made a captain in the State Militia.

The families of Thomas and Phineas kept in close touch with each other. It was a good day's trip for a horse to go from Boxford to Waltham. They frequently went by the way of Danversport and called on the Warren cousins who lived there. Benjamin F. Barnes well remembered going with his parents in the "shay."

After their son Phineas L. was married, Thomas and Adeline lived in the part of the house where Aunt Mary Frances lived until her death. Her father gave her the use of that part of the house as long as she should live. After the death of Phineas L., his brothers Thomas and Louis bought the property, which was not sold until after Aunt Mary Frances died in 1922.

Thomas and Adeline had eight children born in this home. They were Adeline, William, Phineas Lawrence, Thomas H., Mary Frances, George L., Louis Alton and Otis H.

MARY BARNES GOULD, "Aunt Gould."

The eldest child of Phineas and Sally Spofford Barnes was Mary who was born in Waltham in 1808 and died in Georgetown in 1889. As a girl and young lady she spent much time visiting her Grandmother and maiden aunts. She had learned to be a tailor and was a very fine needlewoman. She worked in Waltham, Chelmsford and Andover. In 1833 she was married to Elijah Gould in Boxford.

In Phineas Barnes' account book it shows that Elijah Gould boarded with him from June 1830 to April 1831 at 8 shillings a week, or $56, and he kept his horse the same length of time for $22, or a total of $78. Then Elijah hired the place where Phineas had lived for $50 a year for the years 1832, 33, 34, and 35. As they were not married till Dec. 1833 this must have been their first home. Later they went to Andover to live to care for Mrs. Paul Avery. At the widow Avery's death in 1859, she gave the place to Aunt Gould who was a widow, her husband having died in 1856. This was the first place in Andover beyond the John Foster Place in Boxford. In her last years, Aunt Mary lived on Nelson St. in Georgetown, near her cousin, Elizabeth Nelson Jones.

Aunt Mary and Uncle Elijah had no children. She is usually called Aunt Gould as there were several Aunt Marys in our family. Her sister Sarah lived with her in her last years. They often spent part of the winter with their brother Benjamin S. Barnes in Boxford. Whenever he went to Georgetown he was in the habit of calling on them and leaving some potatoes, apples or other food stuffs, or it might be a load of wood.

Aunt Gould was a very fine letter writer and kept in touch with all the members of her family. She is also remembered for the dresses she made for her nieces and the help she was in making her father's clothes. Uncle Elijah is always remembered as being ready to stop whatever he was doing and entertain the children.

When Aunt Mary wished to see her brother in private, she would say, "Benjamin, I will see you in my 'tother room."

Aunt Gould and her husband are interred in the Barnes lot, Harmony Cemetery in Boxford.

SARAH BARNES DORMAN. "AUNT DORMAN"

Sarah was the second child of Phineas and Sally Barnes, who was born in Waltham in 1810 and died in South Georgetown in 1892. She was the first of the family to marry in 1832, William H. Dorman. Because there were other Sarahs in the family she is usually referred to as Aunt Dorman. Aunt Gould was tall and thin, Aunt Dorman was short, had a very bright mind and if she had had an opportunity would have been a leader. Both sisters did very fine sewing. It is said that her wedding gown was of lace that she made. She took great pride in her ancestry, but had very little of this world's goods. She had a small black satchel, which she always had by her side. It contained her silver spoons.

William Dorman her husband, was a very fine looking man, a house painter, he died of consumption in 1863. Before he was married he boarded with Phineas Barnes the summer of 1831 for 24 weeks at 8 shillings a week or $32 in all. The next spring it was 9 shillings per week for ten weeks and it was $1.50 per week in 1833. These are entries in Phineas Barnes' account book, evidently Aunt Sarah helped her mother for her board. Their first child, Charles H. was born there in 1833. He lived only four years. Another entry says, "Boarding Sarah, Oct. 1834 to June 1836 at $1 per week - $87. To boarding his son Charles same time $43.50. The second son, William Barnes was born in 1835, during this period the entry is "To attendance and trouble at the birth of his son, W.B.D. $5. To boarding the nurse $2."

Some of the time Aunt Dorman lived with her son in Georgetown, then with her sister Mary. After Mary's death she lived in a house on the main street in South Georgetown. This family is interred in the cemetery in Georgetown.

THE FIRST BENJAMIN S. BARNES

The third child of Phineas and Sally Spofford Barnes was born in Waltham Oct. 12, 1812 and died there Oct. 16, 1813. He was named for his maternal grandfather, Benjamin Spofford Barnes.

BENJAMIN S. BARNES of BOXFORD

The fourth child of Phineas and Sally Barnes, and the first one born in Boxford, was Benjamin Spofford, born September 2, 1814. He was named for his maternal grandfather. He was born in the house nearest to Harmony Cemetery on the corner and lived there until his parents moved into his grandfather Spofford's home in 1830. He was baptized in his grandfather's house Dec. 28, 1814. Except for less than a year he lived here all the rest of his life. The exact date his parents moved to his grandparents home is not given in the old account book, but there are several entries that throw light on what happened. "To boarding Sire's wife Lydia Spofford from Dec. 22, 1829 to April 1, 1830 14 weeks at $1.50 per week $21. To nursing and attending her at his house $2. To taking care of his stock of cattle $18." This probably was when Granny Spofford broke her hip and ever after had to sit in a chair.

Benjamin S. Barnes and Dorcas F. Kimball of Salem were married Nov. 5, 1840 by Rev. William S. Coggin of Boxford. They started housekeeping in a house in Georgetown that was owned by Uncle "Nat" Nelson. Before their first child, Charles Alfred, was born Dec. 14, 1841, they were back in Boxford living with his parents and caring for them. His brother Phineas W. was supposed to do that but he said he could not do it, so Benjamin and his bride had to take over caring for the parents and running the farm. After his parents died he bought out all the heirs, and so acquired title to the old home. Later Benjamin bought out the part of his grandfather's farm that Aunt Polly Nelson owned. Thus finally he owned all of his grandfather Spofford's farm. The house was of a salt box type, built about 1745 by Paul Pritchard. In the early 1850's the back was raised up making it a full two story house. In 1854 the Boston and Maine Railroad put through the line from Danvers to Georgetown. The rails have now been removed. During the Civil War a large part of the farm was used by the United States Government as a camp ground for Massachusetts soldiers waiting to go to the front. This was called Camp Stanton. Soldiers left the trains at the railroad crossing, which was always called Barnes' Crossing. While the soldiers were encamped here on Oct. 18, 1862 the barn was burnt, with all its contents. This was due to the carelessness of the soldiers. At the time this happened Benjamin S. Barnes was very ill, with what may have been an attack of appendicitis. While the soldiers were here in camp his son, Benjamin F. and his nephew, Jesse Kimball, who was living there at the time, sold apples on the camp ground. Some of the officers' wives boarded with the family, so his wife was a very busy woman. Added to this was the high cost of all commodities and the scarcity of many articles. Molasses was used wholly for sweetening. A Mrs. Batchelder used to come regularly to get the horse and "shay" to go for her husband's allowance for her family. She always paid with a small jug of molasses. As a very special treat Aunt Dorman invited her sister-in-law to have tea as she was "having a custard pie sweetened with white sugar."

Benjamin S. Barnes was never a strong, robust man, never able to do a hard day's work. While he lived in Georgetown he made shoes. Later he made them in Boxford in the shoemaker's shop across the street, for the Georgetown firms. The shoes were called brogans, a heavy man's work shoe. They were cut out and he would make them. Mostly he carried on the farm and took the produce to market in Salem on Saturday. He also sold cordwood and bark. The wood was carried to Georgetown and Lawrence, car loads were sold in Danvers and Peabody for the brick yards and tanneries. He owned a great many acres of woodland. It seemed as though he bought every piece of woodland that adjoined his property when it was offered for sale. Years later his son Frank followed in his father's footsteps and bought many more acres that joined his father's so that together they owned many acres of woodland.

He fell from his horse while he was going to the mill with a grist and broke his leg. That was Nov. 22, 1825. It is said that he did not attend Boxford Academy although his father owned shares in it and helped in the building. He too was a very good penman and a very well read man. Town affairs were a part of his activities. He was town clerk in 1878 and 1879 and a selectman in 1850, 51, 53, 59, 65 and 1879, over fifty years. He also was an auctioneer and a justice of the peace.

Benjamin S. Barnes and his wife always attended the Boxford Congregational Church, of which he and his wife became members with their daughters Sarah and Ellen in 1858. For many years he played the clarinet in the church choir. For a great many years he had the care of the Ministerial funds of the old church.

It was a family custom for all of the members to return home on September second and help celebrate Grandpa's Birthday. Such good times as every one did have. At noon a splendid chicken dinner with ice cream and a birthday cake prepared by Grandma and the aunts. Usually some members of the Waltham families were there as well as the relatives who lived in Georgetown.

Benjamin S. Barnes married Dorcas Foster Kimball of Salem, Nov. 5, 1840. She was the daughter of Alford Kimball of Andover and Dorcas Foster of Boxford. Her home was on Federal Street, Salem, a home her mother had bought with money she inherited from her Uncle Ephraim Foster, with whom she lived as a girl. Dorcas was born in a house on Norman

St., Salem. She early learned to be a tailor and always did very fine work with her needle. Much of the time before she was married she was at Boxford caring for her aged maternal grandparents. After they died she kept house part of the time for her Uncle Joe Foster. In 1903 after the death of Benjamin S. Barnes his widow lived with her children, Ellen, Mary and Frank. In the summer she usually lived in the old home with daughter Mary. Dorcas F. Barnes died at Boxford in 1911 at the ripe old age of 93 years.

There were five children born to them in this old home, Charles Alford, Sarah Rebecca, Ellen Dorcas, Mary Elizabeth Gould and Benjamin Franklin.

LYDIA BARNES KIMBALL — "AUNT LYDIA"

Lydia was the fifth child of Phineas and Sally Spofford Barnes; she was born in Boxford in 1816. From the age of four to fourteen, she spent a great deal of the time with her grandmother Barnes in Waltham. In 1839 she married Jesse Kimball of Andover. They made their home in an old Kimball homestead on Forest Street in Andover, Mass. That was very near Ingalls Crossing on the old Lawrence and Salem Railroad. He died of consumption in 1855 at the age of 43 years. Life was difficult for her with a sick husband and many small children. A fire destroyed their buildings Dec. 1, 1857. She died in 1863. Her younger son Jesse lived much of the time after his father's death with her brother Benjamin S. Barnes. There were six children, of whom four lived to marry and had families, Sarah E., Adeline R., Thomas H., Mary F., O. Jesse and Anna.

REBECCA BARNES PICKETT — "AUNT BECKY"

Rebecca Barnes, the sixth child of Phineas and Sally Spofford Barnes was born in Boxford, in 1819. She was married in 1841 by Rev. Wm. S. Coggin to William H. Pickett of Georgetown. They always lived in South Georgetown. He was a shoemaker. She died in 1875. In 1885 he married a second time Sarah E. Carleton. He died in 1895. There were three children, Emma F., Charles H. and Sarah S.

PHINEAS W. BARNES of DENVER, COLORADO

Phineas Warren Barnes was born in 1822, the youngest child of Phineas and Sally Spofford Barnes of Boxford. He died in Denver, Colo. in 1900. He was married to Harriet Russell of Ipswich in 1845.

In 1840 when his brother Benjamin was married he took over the running of his father's farm. In less than a year he gave it up and his brother had to come back to the farm and take over the care of his parents also. Meanwhile Phineas had learned to butcher and moved to the house in which he was born. In 1849 he bought Journey's End in Boxford, now owned by Elizabeth Barnes Sawyer, and continued the butchering there until 1858, when he bought out the Village Store. Previous to this time he had had the Post Office in his home and did shoemaking in the rear room up-stairs in his home. He was also Postmaster for Camp Stanton during the Civil War. At the close of the war he bought the post office and moved it to Journey's End and it made what is now part of the kitchen. The Railroad ticket office was bought by his brother Benjamin S. and was used in his barn-yard for the pigs. In 1865 or 66 he moved to North Andover where he had a store until 1872 or 73, when he sold out and went to Denver because of the health of his son Arthur, who was having hemorrhages of the lungs. In Denver he was in the real estate business with his son. There were three children born in Boxford. The oldest was Willie born in 1847 and died in 1852. He is interred in the Barnes lot in Harmony Cemetery. The other two were Eva and Arthur.

ADELINE BROWN of WALTHAM

The eldest of the children of Thomas and Adeline Lawrence Barnes was Adeline who was born in the old home Sept. 9, 1823 and died in the same house in 1895, while she was living with her sister Mary Frances. In 1848 she married Leonard Brown of Weston and they made their home there. He died in Florida in 1876. They had one daughter Addie who died in 1873 as a result of a railroad accident.

WILLIAM BARNES of WALTHAM

The second child of Thomas and Adeline Lawrence Barnes was William, who was born in 1825 and died in 1841.

PHINEAS L. BARNES of WALTHAM

The third child of Thomas and Adeline Lawrence Barnes was Phineas Lawrence Barnes. He lived his whole life in the old Barnes home. Born in 1828, he died in 1890. In 1855 he married Elizabeth L. Miles who died in 1898. He was a market gardener sending his produce into Boston. They had seven children, Lizzie Curtis, who died at two years, Jennie M. who married Frank Wright and had two daughters, Thomas Howard who married and had a son Harold. The twins Annie and Frank L. THOMAS H. BARNES, the SCHOOLMASTER

The fourth child of Thomas and Adeline Lawrence Barnes was Thomas H. Barnes. A graduate of Bridgewater Normal School he taught school all his life, his later years in South Boston. He married Louise J. Varney and there were three boys and a girl. William was the only one that lived, married and had a son Wellington. He lived at last in Florida.

MARY FRANCES BARNES — "Aunt Mary Frances"

The fifth child of Thomas and Adeline Lawrence Barnes was Mary Frances Barnes, born in the home in 1834, she died there in 1922. She was a school teacher in Waltham for many years. To Aunt Mary more than any one else we are indebted for so many of our family traditions.

GEORGE L. BARNES of WALTHAM

George was the sixth child of Thomas and Adeline Lawrence Barnes. He was born in 1836 and died in 1873. He was in the Civil War and went to Florida after the war. He married in 1860 Sarah C. Buttrick. They had one son, William, who married and had a daughter.

LOUIS A. BARNES — "UNCLE LOU"

The seventh child of Thomas and Adeline Lawrence Barnes was Louis Alton Barnes, born Oct. 4, 1838 and died at Gainesville, Florida, Mar. 22, 1896. He married Aug. 15, 1872 Sarah Rebecca Barnes, daughter of Benjamin S. Barnes and Dorcas F. Kimball, a cousin once removed. He went to Florida soon after the Civil War. He owned much land and had extensive orange groves. There were five children, the oldest, twins, were born at her father's home in Boxford. Mary died at five months and Benjamin Spofford died at 21; Grace Warren died at a few months, Thomas Louis, who is married and has a daughter and grandchildren and Samuel Lawrence was the youngest. He married and had two daughters and grandchildren.

OTIS H. BARNES

The youngest child of Thomas and Adeline Lawrence Barnes was Otis H. Barnes who was born in 1840 and died in 1902. He was in the Civil War. All of his life he was connected with Faneuil Hall Market. He lived in Dorchester. His first wife was Josephine who died in 1888, the mother of their two children. In 1890 he married a second time Louise A. Post. After her husband died she went to California. The children were Addie, who married Harry Spiller and Harry. Each had children.

CHARLES A. BARNES

Charles A. Barnes, oldest child of Benjamin S. Barnes, was born in 1841. As a young man he worked on the farm. In 1868, or 69, he went to Iowa with his cousin Thomas Kimball of Andover. They had a store and owned land in Lamoille. Many years later he went to Manning, then to Tabor where his children attended college. After his wife's death he lived in Shenandoah with his son Ben. He died in Albuquerque at his daughter Mary's home. He was always quite deaf because of scarlet fever. He was always interested in farming and owned many farms. He made many visits East to visit his family. There were five children.

SARAH R. BARNES

Sarah Rebecca Barnes, oldest daughter of Benjamin S. Barnes, married her father's cousin, Louis A. Barnes and went to live in Gainesville, Fla. Before her marriage she taught school in Boxford, Georgetown and Florida. She was a very much beloved teacher. Her first home in Florida was a log cabin at the Plantation, 21 miles out of town; later they built the finest home in Gainesville. Her first children were twins who were born at her parents' home in Boxford. The family came to Boxford every second or third summer, and she died there in 1893.

ELLEN B. SAWYER

Ellen Dorcas Barnes, the third child of Benjamin S. Barnes, graduated from the Putnam Free School in Newburyport, Mass., and taught school in Rowley, Georgetown and Boston until her marriage, at the age of 23, to Samuel L. Sawyer of Boxford. They built a house in Danvers and always lived there.

They were active in church work, both had large Sunday School classes of young people. He was a deacon. He was a representative and later senator from their district. He was also active in the Masons. He was a flour salesman. There were no children but her nephew, Samuel L. Barnes, lived with them ever after his mother died, when he was eight years old. After her husband's death, Aunt Nell sold the house and had an apartment in Danvers. In 1917 she went to Los Angeles and lived in the house with her sister Mary.

MARY B. SAWYER

Mary Elizabeth Gould Barnes was the youngest daughter of Benjamin S. Barnes. She was named for her two aunts. Mary Elizabeth Knapp and Mary Gould. However, after her marriage she usually shortened her name to Mary Barnes Sawyer. She married her second cousin, William Foster Sawyer of Boxford. He was a distant cousin of Samuel L. Sawyer, her sister's husband.

Aunt Mary attended the Putnam Free School at Newburyport but did not graduate. She then learned to be a tailor of Osgood, the Georgetown tailor. For a time she was a clerk at the Pilgrim Press in Boston. Uncle Will enlisted in the Civil War but the war was over before he reached the front. He was a very fine mason, could do all types of masonry. Their home was in Georgetown many years, going in 1893 to Cliftondale. In 1912 they went to Los Angeles where they lived ever after. There were two children, Frank Lincoln who died at the age of ten and Elizabeth Barnes, a kindergarten teacher in Los Angeles until 1943.

B. FRANK BARNES

Benjamin Franklin Barnes was the youngest child of Benjamin S. Barnes. He attended the Bradford High School and Putnam Free School in Newburyport, but did not graduate from either. He remained at home and helped his father carry on the farm. In 1877 he married Mary A. Boardman of Haverhill and they made their home in the west end of his father's house. Previously the old home had been enlarged by the addition of an ell at the east end. After the death of her father, they moved to Haverhill in 1886. There he had a milk route and carried on a farm. He was a member of the City Government for four years. After his wife's death in 1909, he married Anna Eliza Getchell of Norwich, Conn., who died in 1956. There, were eight children, Mabel D., Sarah B., Kate W. Charles W., Benj F., Jr., Warren, E. Warren and Fred S.

EVA L. BARNES LIDDELL

Eva Louise Barnes Liddell, only daughter of Phineas W. Barnes, was born at Journey's End, Boxford. She was a teacher in No. Andover and later in Denver, Colo., but had to give up because of deafness. She wrote many children's stories for publication. She married Dr. Henry G. Liddell, an Englishman. They lived in Washington, D.C., New York City and Long Island. After his death she went to Los Angeles. There were no children.

ARTHUR W. BARNES

Arthur Ward Barnes, son of Phineas W. Barnes, was born at Journey's End, Boxford. As a young man he developed tuberculosis, so he and his mother went to Denver, Colo. As he was much better there, the family went West. He and his father were in the real estate business there. He was never married. He wrote many poems for family anniversaries, also published a book of poetry, "Buttercups and Clover."

WARREN ANCESTRY

Two lines of Warren were the ancestors of Grace Warren who married Capt. Samuel Barnes. John of Watertown and Richard of Plymouth who came in the Mayflower in 1620. It is believed that they were brothers.

John Warren came in 1630 to Salem in the Arbella with Gov. Winthrop. He immediately settled in Watertown where he was made a freeman in 1631. In 1635 he built a house on Warren Street, in what is now Waltham. It is believed that this was the house that was torn down in 1837, later known as the Barnes home. John Warren was a selectman from 1636 to 40. He died in 1667 at the age of 82 years. His first wife was Rose Rydelsdale, his second wife was Margaret who was our ancestor. She died in 1662. There were four children. Daniel the third child was baptized in England in 1628 and died in 1715. When his father died he gave him the home place. Daniel was selectman for twelve years from 1682 to 1698. He was at the Great Swamp "Fite" in King Phillip's War, Dec. 19, 1675 and at the Sudbury "Fite" in 1676. His wife, whom he married in Watertown in 1650 was Mary Barron, who was born in Waterford, Ireland in 1630, the daughter of Ellis and Grace Barron. His wife died in 1716. There were nine children of whom our ancestor Johhua Warren was the eighth, born in 1668, he died in 1760. Very little is known of Joshua. He lived at the old home in Watertown. About 1695 or 96 he married Rebecca Church who was born in Watertown 1678 and died in 1757. She was a daughter of Caleb Church and Joanna Sprague. Joshua Warren and Rebecca Church had twelve children of whom the youngest was Phineas, born in 1717. He was our ancestor.

Phineas Warren lived at the old home. In 1739 he married Grace Hastings of Watertown, born in 1720, who died in 1805. She was a daughter of Joseph Hastings and Lydia Brown. Phineas was the third generation to marry a Watertown resident.

Phineas Warren was at the Lexington and Concord "Fite" April 19, 1775. With him were five of his sons, Phineas, Jonathan, and Peter, William and Eliphalet. He served in Capt. Abraham Pierce's Co., Col. Thomas Gardner's Regt. The time was three days and his travel was 28 miles. Many of his descendants have joined the D.A.R. and S.A.R. through this record. He had five sons at the Battle of Bunker Hill, Charles who was ten years old was a drummer boy, three of these were not at Lexington and Concord, Moses, Josiah and Charles. Two sons were lieutenants. In the two battles were eight sons, five of whom rendered other service. His daughter Grace's husband, Capt. Samuel Barnes was a sea captain at that time, but his records were lost. His daughter Lydia's husband, David Barnard, was at Concord and Lexington. That day she captured a British officer. Her second husband, Aaron Wood was a member of the General Court and her third husband, Benjamin Spofford went to Concord and Lexington from Rowley, now Georgetown.

It is recorded that Jan. 1781 their sons, Josiah and William and son-in-law Samuel Barnes "in consideration of the duty and regard due our aged father and mother, Phineas and Grace Warren, execute a conveyance to them during life of a farm of 30 acres."

There were fifteen children, Grace, our ancestor was the eleventh. She married Capt. Samuel Barnes.

Richard Warren was our other Warren ancestor. He came from Greenwich, England on the Mayflower in 1620. While they were in Provincetown Harbor he was selected with nine others to cruise along the coast to decide on a place to settle.

Richard Warren may have been a trader from London. He evidently was not of the group of separatists from the Church of England. He was one of those who signed the Compact in Provincetown Harbor. He also was a descendant of William the Conqueror. He took part in the first encounter with the Indians in December, 1620.

In 1623 his wife Elizabeth and five daughters came over on the ANN. One of his land grants was at Warren's Cove. He owned a share in the "little red cow." He died in 1628.

A contemporary wrote of him, "Grave Richard Warren, a man of integrity, justice and uprightness, of piety and serious religion; a useful instrument during the short time he lived bearing a deep share in the difficulties and troubles of the Plantation. His wife, Elizabeth Jouatt occupied an important social position in the Colony". She is usually mentioned as Mistress Elizabeth Warren, a designation by no means common. She had two sons born in Plymouth and five daughters born in England. She married for her second husband, Mr. Marsh. She died in 1675. Their daughter Elizabeth born in 1608 in England married Richard Church, our ancestor.

CHURCH ANCESTRY

Richard Church, the first of the name in America came to Plymouth in 1630. He was born in England in 1608 and died in Dedham in 1668. He was a volunteer in the Pequot War, when he is called Sargent Church.

In 1636 he married Elizabeth Warren, daughter of Richard Warren and Elizabeth Jouatt of Plymouth. She died in Hingham in 1670. There were twelve children, the sixth was Caleb, our ancestor, born in 1642. He was living in Dedham in 1672. Later in 1690 he was made a freeman in Watertown. It is said he was asked to come to Watertown to be a cooper. He was also a millwright. He was a selectman in Watertown in 1692, 1698-1702, 1713, also a member of the General Court in 1713.

In 1667 Caleb Church married in Hingham Joanna Sprague, daughter of William Sprague and Millicent Eames of Hingham who was born in 1644, or 45, in Hingham and died in 1678 in Watertown. In 1691 Caleb married for his second wife Rebecca Scotto of Watertown. He died before Nov. 1724 in Watertown. There were three daughters, the youngest was Rebecca, born 1678, just before her mother's death. Rebecca married Joshua Warren and became our ancestor.

SPRAGUE ANCESTRY

William Sprague came to Salem in 1629. In 1636 he was a resident of Charlestown; in 1645 he was a selectman in Hingham and in 1661 a constable. As early as 1636 he had land granted to him in Hingham. In 1651 he bought a dwelling house with five acres of land on Union Street near the river.

In 1635 he married Millicent Eames, daughter of Lieutenant Anthony Eames. She died in Hingham in 1696. There were ten children, the sixth was Joanna, who married Caleb Church, our ancestor.

EAMES ANCESTRY

Lieutenant Anthony Eames lived in Charlestown in 1634, in Hingham in 1636, in Marshfield in 1650. For several years there was a controversy over his election as Captain. The account occupies many pages of Governor Winthrop's History. His wife was Margery. Their daughter was Millicent who married William Sprague, our ancestor.

Lieutenant Eames was a member of Ancient and Honorable Heavy Artillery Co. of Boston.

BARRON ANCESTRY

Ellis Barron was probably born in Waterford, Ireland in 1600. He came to America with his wife and five children in 1640. In 1641 he was a resident of Watertown. He was a constable and a selectman there. About 1625 he married Grace ——— who died in 1650. His second wife was Hannah, widow of Timothy Hawkins, Sr.

Ellis Barron died in 1676. There were eight children of whom the second was Mary, born in 1630 in Ireland. She married Daniel Warren of Watertown, our ancestor.

HASTINGS ANCESTRY

Thomas Hastings came to America in the Elizabeth in 1634 with his first wife Susan aged 34. He was 29. In 1635 he was made a freeman in Watertown, a selectman 1638 to 1643 and 1650 to 1671, town clerk 1671 to 1677, representative 1673 and a deacon many years. When he died in 1685, he had over 300 acres of land in Watertown besides land in Deerfield. His real estate was valued at 421 pounds. His home was on School Street in Watertown. His wife died January, 1651 and he married April, 1651 Margaret Cheney, daughter of William and Margaret Cheney of Roxbury. She died in 1685. He is usually called Deacon Thomas Hastings.

His son Joseph Hastings was born in 1657 in Watertown and died in 1695. He married in 1682 Ruth Rice who died in three months. In 1684 he married Martha Shepherd and had four children; the oldest, Joseph, Jr., born 1685, who was our ancestor. He lived in Watertown, was a selectman in 1748 and died after that date. He was a house-wright. In 1716 he married Lydia Brown of Watertown, daughter of Abraham Brown. She was born 1697 and died 1768. There were thirteen children of whom Grace, born 1720 married Phineas Warren, our ancestor. This Joseph Hastings had his home on the Trapelo Road about one-fourth mile east of the junction of Forest Street.

ABRAHAM BROWNE ANCESTRY

Abraham Browne, or Brown, was an early settler of Watertown. He was a land surveyor and laid out the town. In 1632 he was made a freeman. From 1636 to 1640 inclusive he was a selectman. He died before 1650. His first two children were born in England. There were six children, our ancestor, Jonathan, was the fourth. Abraham's widow married 1659 Andrew Hodges of Ipswich who died in 1665 and she returned to Watertown where she died 1686.

Jonathan Browne lived and died in Watertown in 1691. In 1662 he married Mary Shattuck, daughter of William and Mary Shattuck, born 1645. There were ten children. The Abraham Browne House in Watertown, probably built by his brother, is now open to visitors.

The fifth child of Jonathan was Capt. Abraham Browne born in Watertown in 1671 and died there in 1729. He held many public offices, treasurer 1695 - 1700 inclusive, assessor, selectman and town clerk. He married Mary Hyde, daughter of Job Hyde and Elizabeth Fuller of Newton. She died in 1723. There were nine children. Lydia, the fourth, born 1697, married Joseph Hastings and was our ancestor.

SHATTUCK ANCESTRY

William Shattuck was a proprietor in Watertown in 1642. He was a shoemaker, born in 1622, he died in 1672. His wife Susanna married for her second husband Richard Nouvell and died in 1686. The daughter Mary Shattuck, born 1645, married Jonathan Browne and so became our ancestor.

HYDE ANCESTRY

Deacon Samuel Hyde and his wife Temperance embarked in the ship Jonathan at London bound for Boston April 1639. He was born in 1610 and died 1689. About 1640 he is the second settler of Cambridge Village. In 1647 he and his brother Jonathan bought 40 acres of land and in 1652 they bought two hundred acres more. The Dedham highway was laid out through their land. There were five children, Job the third was born in 1643.

In 1663 Job married Elizabeth Fuller, daughter of John and Elizabeth Fuller. Job and his wife both died in Nov. 1685, nine days apart, leaving nine children, whom the grandparents, Dea. Samuel Hyde and John Fuller cared for. Mary Hyde was one of the children, born in 1673, she married Capt. Abraham Brown our ancestor.

FULLER ANCESTRY

John Fuller was one of the first settlers of Cambridge Village in 1644. In 1658 he purchased 750 acres of land for 160 pounds. It was bounded on the North and West by the Charles River. Later he owned one thousand acres, which was known as the Fuller Farm. Cheese-cake Brook ran through the farm. He left the farm to his sons with the proviso that they should not sell it until their next relative had the offer of it.

In 1675 in the time of King Phillip's War when all his sons were called into service, John Fuller petitioned the General Court saying that he would have to abandon his farm, if he could not have their help. It was granted that no more than two should be in the service at the same time. John Fuller was born in 1611 and died 1699, his wife Elizabeth died in 1700. There were eight children. Elizabeth married Job Hyde and so became our ancestor.

SPOFFORD ANCESTRY

The wife of Phineas Barnes of Waltham was Sarah, or Sally Spofford of Boxford.

The first Spofford in America was John Spofford, who was born in Yorkshire, England in 1612 and died in Rowley, now Georgetown, in 1678. He came to America in 1638, settling first in Ipswich, later going to what is now Spofford's Hill in Georgetown. A marker by the roadside gives the location of the original home. His wife was Elizabeth Scott, who was born in England in 1625 and came to America in 1634. She was the daughter of Thomas and Elizabeth Scott each of whom were born in 1594. The date of marriage of John Spofford and Elizabeth Scott is not known. Their oldest child was born in 1646. There were nine children. His widow died in Bradford 1691.

The second child and oldest son was John born 1648 in Rowley. John Spofford, Jr. served in King Phillip's War under Capt. Prentice in the Narragansett Campaign. He married in 1675 Sarah Wheeler, daughter of David Wheeler and Sarah Wise. She was born in Newbury in 1652 and died in Bradford 1732, having married for her second husband in 1701 Caleb Hopkinson of Bradford. There were eight children, Jonathan born in 1684 was the fourth.

Very little is known about Jonathan although he lived in Rowley. In 1708 he married Jemima Freethe of York, Maine who was born about 1689 in York, the daughter of John Freethe and Hannah Bray. There were thirteen children and the sixth was Abel born 1718 who was our ancestor.

Abel Spofford is usually known as Lieutenant Abel. He received his commission in the 2nd Foot Co. of Rowley in 1771. He was a yeoman. He built and occupied a house west of Baldpate in Georgetown on Spofford St. His estate was inventoried at 1255 pounds. In 1746 he married Eleanor Poore, daughter of Samuel Poore and Hannah Morse, born at Indian Hill, Newbury in 1716. There were five children. The third and fourth were twins, Benjamin and Joseph, born in 1752.

Benjamin was our ancestor. These twin brothers resembled each other so much that when the two sat side by side and called to the grandchildren, "Come to Grandpa", using the same tone of voice, they could not be told apart. If one lost a button off his clothing and could not easily replace it, the other took off one to match. Their saddle horses with equipment were also matched. Many amusing tales were told of the jokes they played upon people, owing to their close resemblance.

Benjamin Spofford married Polly Adams in 1786. She was born in Rowley in 1761. At first they lived in the Shute house in Georgetown and there their first child was born in 1786. It was thought it would be better for his wife's health to move to Boxford, so he bought the house that we know as the B. S. Barnes' home. This was before 1789, for the second daughter was born there Jan. 1789, that was Aunt Polly. The young wife did not recuperate but died December 1790, leaving a widowed husband and two little girls. Her mother, Sarah Foster Adams, who is usually called "Granny Adams," continued to live with the family and care for the little girls until her death in 1802.

Polly Adams Spofford had for her wedding dress a very pretty white silk with tiny brocaded pink rose buds. Her husband had a vest of the same material. The writer has a piece of that gown, also a mourning ring for her with her name and the dates.

Benjamin Spofford served in the Revolutionary War for a short time.

Older members of the family have told that Benjamin Spofford was in the habit of praying for his children and grandchildren to third and fourth generations. Little did he realize that even further generations would be interested to know about him. In 1792 Benjamin Spofford married for his second wife, a neighbor Lydia Wood, who lived where the Kelsey salesrooms are now. Lydia was the widow of Aaron Wood, who was a representative from Boxford before and during the Revolution, a justice of the "Peace and Quorum" under King George and later a Senator and a member of the Governor's Council. Lydia's first husband was David Barnard of Watertown, a Minute man in the Revolution, she herself had captured a "Red Coat" on the 19th of April, 1775. This was Benjamin's second marriage and Lydia's third. Lydia was a sister of Grace Warren, who was the wife of Capt. Samuel Barnes. Phineas Barnes, son of Capt. Samuel and Grace Barnes visited his aunt is Boxford and there met his aunt's step-daughter, who later became his wife. So the Waltham and Boxford families were united.

Lydia is usually called "Granny Spofford". She came from a family of singers and had a fine voice. Her collection of songs and ballads, historical, pathetic and humorous, were most interesting to those who heard them. Owing to a broken hip she used to sit in a rocking chair at a front window in the East Room during the last years of her life. In a corner of the room was a tall eight day clock, which was so tall a recess had to be made in the ceiling and the topmost ornament on the clock removed to admit it. Lydia purchased this when she came there a bride in 1792. It continued to remain there as long as the old home was occupied by the family. Then in 1911 it came into the possession of E. Warren Barnes, youngest grandson of Benjamin S. Barnes. As Warren was unmarried at that time he placed it in the home of his sister, the writer of this. It is now the property of his daughter, Mabel Warren (Barnes) Frost, Mrs. Clarence W., of Portsmouth, N.H. This clock has always kept good time. It was made by Nathan Adams of Newbury, a cousin of the first wife of Benjamin Spofford.

In Feb. 1814 Phineas Barnes and his family came to live in Boxford at the next house. He helped his father-in-law carry on the farm. In 1830 Benjamin Spofford had Phineas move into his house to care for him and his wife. In his last years Benjamin went to live with his daughter Polly in Georgetown and died there in 1836. His wife Lydia died in Boxford in 1839. He was buried in Union Cemetery, Georgetown beside his first wife and Lydia was buried in Harmony Cemetery, Boxford, beside her second husband. A D.A.R. marker has been placed on her grave.

There were only two children, Sally who was our ancestor and Polly, who married Uncle Nat Nelson, and had one daughter, Elizabeth that married Jeremiah P. Jones, a lawyer of Georgetown and Haverhill.

WHEELER ANCESTRY

John Wheeler, a barber, came on the Mary and John in 1634 from Salisbury, England. In 1641 he was at Salisbury, Mass., and he was at Hampton soon after its settlement. Before 1650 he was living in Newbury where he died 1670. His wife was Anne, who died in 1662. They had eleven children. The fourth was David, born 1625. He came in the Confidence in 1638. David went from Hampton to Newbury in 1645 and to Rowley in 1699. He married Elizabeth Wise, daughter of Humphrey Wise and Susanna.

David Wheeler was brought into court and fined for "Gathering peas on the Sabbath day." He was admonished and the fine remitted in Sept. 1696.

David Wheeler's daughter Sarah married in 1675 John Spofford, Jr., our ancestor.

FREETHE ANCESTRY

William Freethe and his brother Alex were curing fish at Stratton's Island, Scarboro, Maine in 1637. His wife was Elizabeth. About 1658 a son John was born at York, Maine. He died in 1692. He married Hannah Bray who was born 1668 and died 1729. There were three girls, Jemima was born 1688 or 89 at York. In 1708 she married Jonathan Spofford of Rowley, and became one of our ancestors.

POORE ANCESTRY

The first Samuel Poore came to Newbury in 1638. He was born in 1623 and died in 1683. His wife was Rebecca —— and they had nine children.

Samuel Poore of the second generation was born in Newbury 1653 and died there in 1727. He owned house and land on the west bank of Merrimac which he later sold Samuel Morgridge who used it as a shipyard. In 1680 he married Rachel Bailey, daughter of John Bailey and Eleanor Emery. She died after 1733. There were six children. The second was Samuel born 1683.

The third generation was Samuel who in 1709 bought the Indian Hill Farm in Newbury. This house was struck by lightning and destroyed. He built another, which is the old part of the present Indian Hill Farm in Newbury, the home of Ben Perley Poore in West Newbury. In 1705 he married Hannah Morse of Newbury, daughter of Dea. Benjamin Morse and Ruth Sawyer, born 1681. Samuel Poore died in 1769. There were nine children, the fourth was Eleanor born 1716, who married Lieut. Abel Spofford, our ancestor.

BAILEY ANCESTRY

John Bailey and his son John came from Chippenham, Wiltshire, England in the ship Angel Gabriel, having sailed from Bristol April 1635. They were cast away in the Great Storm of Aug. 10, 1635 at Pemaquid, now Bristol, Maine. In 1637 his wandering spirit induced him to settle and establish a lonely solitary house beyond the Merrimack River near the mouth of the Powow River. The sole right of fishing in the Powow was granted him, provided a certain portion be given to the town. In 1640 he was living in Salisbury. In the spring of 1651 he was in Newbury. He devised his Salisbury home to his son John. He died in the fall of 1651 in Newbury. His wife never came to America. Authorities ordered him to go to her or have her come over. He died before this was done. He had two sons and two daughters. John, Jr. was born 1613. John, Sr. was a weaver and yeoman. His son was also a weaver and husbandman.

John Bailey, Jr. married Eleanor Emery, daughter of John and Agnes Emery, about 1640. He lived in Salisbury until about 1643, then went to Newbury. He was a selectman in 1650, a freeman 1669. He died in Newbury 1691. There were ten children. Rachel born 1652 was the seventh. She married Samuel Poore, our ancestor.

William Sawyer came from Lancashire, England as early as 1640 to Salem. He was a proprietor 1642. In 1643 he was in Wenham, then later he was in Newbury. He was born 1613 and died in Newbury in 1702 or 3. He is buried in the "Old Cemetery". His wife was Ruth Bitfield. There were thirteen children. The fourth child was Ruth born 1648 who married Dea. Benjamin Morse and so was our ancestor.

ADAMS ANCESTRY

Robert Adams, a native of Devonshire, was in Ipswich in 1635, in Salem in 1638-9, and in Newbury in 1640. He came to Ipswich in 1635 with his wife Eleanor and two children. He may have been a cousin of the Braintree Quincy family of Adams. Robert Adams died in Newbury in 1682. His wife died in 1677 and in 1678 he married Sarah Glover Short. There were ten children by his first wife. The third child, the first born in America, in Salem was our Abraham, born in 1639.

Serg. Abraham Adams lived in Newbury. He was a corporal in the Militia 1685-1693, a sergeant 1703. In 1670 he married Mary Pettengill born 1652 in Newbury. There were ten children. The third child was Abraham born 1676. He is usually called Serg. Abraham. He died in 1714 in Newbury. His wife died in 1705.

This son, Abraham is usually called Capt. Abraham. He went to sea, made many voyages including fourteen to England. He launched coasters from the river in front of his house. When he was married in 1703 his father gave him "High Fields" in Byfield, a part of Newbury. Later he became a farmer and built the old Adams Homestead that is still standing. His wife was Anne Longfellow of Newbury, born 1683 and died 1758. Her husband died 1763. There were eleven children, the sixth was another Abraham born in 1715.

This third Abraham was a yeoman and also a tanner. He lived in Methuen from 1742 to 1747. Oct. 20, 1747 he came into possession of the so-called Shute place, South Georgetown, then New Rowley. This was next to the former So. Georgetown Depot. First he married in 1737 Mary Colman who died in 1752 at the age of 35, leaving five children. She died at the birth of triplets, all of whom died. In 1760 he married Sarah Foster of Linebrook who was born in 1721. He hung himself in the entry of his house. There was only one child by this marriage, Mary, or Polly, who was born in 1761 and married Benjamin Spofford. Her mother lived with her daughter and died in Boxford in 1802. She is interred in Union Cemetery beside her daughter, Polly Spofford, our ancestor.

PETTENGILL ANCESTRY

Richard Pettengill came from Staffordshire, England to Wenham in 1648. He was born in 1621 and in 1643 he married Joanna Ingersoll. In 1652 he was in Newbury. There were at least three children, Mary, who was born in 1652 married Abraham Adams, an ancestor.

INGERSOLL ANCESTRY

Richard Ingersoll came from Sands, Bedfordshire, England in 1629 with his wife, two sons and four daughters to Salem. He had a house lot with two acres of land laid out to him. In 1636 he had 80 acres of "plantation", other lands later. His home was supposed to be on the site of the present "House of Seven Gables". Jan. 1636 it was agreed he was to have one penny for "every person he doth ferry over the North River." He is usually called a ferryman. His wife was Ann Langley who died in 1677. Richard Ingersoll died before July 1644 and she married for a second time John Knight of Newbury. There were seven children. Joanna married Richard Pettengill and so was an ancestor.

LONGFELLOW ANCESTRY

William Longfellow was born in Hampshire, England in 1650. He was known as Ensign William Longfellow. He was a man of ability and education, rather improvident in his ways preferring fun and frolic to work and study. He was in the Expedition to Quebec in 1690 and was drowned at Anticosti on his way home.

William Longfellow married Anne Sewall who was born in Newbury in 1662. They lived at High Fields, Byfield. There were six children. The third was Anne born 1683 who married Capt. Abraham Adams, our ancestor.

Widow Anne Longfellow married in 1692 Henry Short of Newbury and died in 1706.

SEWALL ANCESTRY

Henry Sewall was born in Coventry England in 1576, came to Newbury and in 1646 was in Rowley where he died 1657. His wife was Anne Hunt.

Henry Sewall, Jr., their son, was born in Coventry in 1614. He came to Ipswich in 1634, then the next year to Newbury. In 1646 he married Jane Dummer and went to England and was settled there as a minister till 1659. Back in America in 1661 he sent for his family to come to Newbury where he lived till his death in 1700. His home was on Parker Street, Newbury. He was a freeman 1637. His wife died in 1701. There were eight children. The sixth was Anne who was born in Newbury in 1662. She married William Longfellow and so was our ancestor. Judge Samuel Sewall was a brother of Anne Longfellow.

DUMMER ANCESTRY

Jane Dummer born 1627 was a daughter of Stephen Dummer, (1609-1670), and Alice Archer who died in 1661. Stephen Dummer came from England 1638 and returned in 1646-47. He died there and probably she did also.

FOSTER ANCESTRY

Sarah Foster who married an Adams was descended from Reginald Foster of Ipswich. Then his son Abraham married Lydia Burbank. The third generation was Abraham born 1659 in Ipswich died in 1741. His home was in Ipswich and Topsfield. 1693 Abraham married Mary Robinson, born 1665. There were three children, the oldest Abraham born in Ipswich 1696, died 1767. He was a carpenter and lived in Topsfield. In 1718 he married Sarah Dunnell of Topsfield born in 1697 and died in 1762 or 63. They had seven children of whom Sarah was the second born 1721. She married Abraham Adams of Rowley, now Georgetown.

The pieces of old pewter that are marked S F were this Sarah Foster's when she married Abraham Adams.

DUNNELL ANCESTRY

Michael Dunnell and his wife Mary were in Topsfield in 1668. He was said to be a French Huguenot. His will was dated 1711 but was not proved for seven years. There were seven children.

Michael of the next generation was born in Topsfield in 1670 and died 1761. He was a physician and was said to have been married five times. Hannah was the mother of our Sarah, born in 1697. Sarah married Abraham Foster, our ancestor.

KIMBALL ANCESTRY

The ancestry of Richard Kimball goes back to the days of William the Conqueror in England. Our ancestor, was Richard who came in the Elizabeth in 1634. First he settled in Watertown and was a freeman May 6, 1635 and a proprietor in 1636 and 37. Soon he moved to Ipswich, there he was a wheelwright. His wife was Ursula Scott, daughter of Henry Scott and Martha Whatlock. She died in 1661 and Richard in 1675. Their son Richard, born in England in 1623, was our ancestor. He was a wheelwright and yeoman. He was in Wenham 1652 to 56 and 1662 he was in Topsfield. He died in Wenham in 1676. His wife was Mary ——— who died 1672. There were eight children. Thomas was the third child, he was born in Wenham 1657, where he lived and died in 1732. Thomas' wife was Elizabeth Potter, daughter of Anthony Potter of Ipswich. In 1716 Thomas bought land in Andover that he gave his son Daniel. Thomas Kimball was a surveyor, who made frequent sales and purchases of land. He had seven children, Daniel was the oldest and the first of our Kimball ancestors to live in Andover, probably in the section near Middleton. This Daniel's grandson Daniel lived near the depot at Ingalls Crossing. Formerly there was a railroad from North Andover to Salem. The house has been gone many years and another has been built there.

The first Daniel Kimball was a cooper. He married 1708 Sarah Davidson and in 1712 Esther Foster, daughter of Abraham and Esther Foster of Andover. She was received into the First Church in Andover 1713 and her husband 1727. He owned considerable real estate that he deeded his sons. There were three sons and a daughter. His wife died 1753 and he died 1754.

The oldest son of the first Daniel was Daniel born 1713. He lived in Andover and Topsfield but we know little about him. In 1736 he married Mehitable Ingalls of Andover. There were five children. The youngest was our Daniel born 1750. He was a farmer and had the farm at Ingalls Crossing. He died 1814. He was in the Revolutionary Army for a short time. In 1778 he married Mary Stevens, daughter of Beamsley and Rebecca Stevens of Andover. She was born in Andover in 1759. There were nine children, the youngest Jacob lived on the farm after his father. Mehitable was the oldest, she married a Griffin. Mary the second daughter married a Bradstreet and lived in Rowley. She was almost a hundred when she died. Her grandchildren were the Fosters, Will and Harlan, of Rowley. The writer recalls seeing her only a short time before her death. Sarah, another daughter of Daniel and Mary Kimball married Ephraim Fuller of Middleton. Their home was on the site of the Middleton Public Library. There were no children. She is usually called Aunt Fuller. The writer has a small green porcelain basket that Aunt Fuller gave her niece Dorcas F. Kimball when she was a very little girl. In 1885 D.F.B. gave it to the writer, who has always treasured it. Two sons of this family, Abial and Jeremiah, followed the sea, one was buried at sea, the other near Naples. Alfred was our ancestor. He went to Salem. Daniel Kimball's widow Mary lived until 1847. Dorcas Barnes, her grandchild recalled that she went to the funeral of her grandmother, driving up in the chaise with her son Charles, not quite six years old. He also recalled the trip. Her husband, B. S. Barnes, could not go as he was serving on the jury.

Alfred Kimball, our ancestor, was born in 1791 and was in Salem when he married Dorcas Foster of Boxford on election day in 1817, May 29. Their first child was born May 29, 1818, she was Dorcas Foster, wife of Benjamin S. Barnes. She was born on Norman St., Salem. Later they bought a house on Federal St. and had a little store. Evidently he was not a very well man, probably having old fashioned consumption, as he was sick a long time. Before he died his wife had a school for colored children of Salem on the second floor. When the third child, Sarah Fuller Kimball, was born in 1826, her mother was away from her school only two weeks. This school continued for some years. Alfred Kimball died Sept. 1828. He left three girls and a boy. Dorcas, my grandmother was the oldest, Mary Elizabeth, known as Aunt Knapp, Sarah Fuller, who was Aunt Marsh and Alfred who was only six months old when his father died. Alfred lived his entire life on North Street, he died in 1900. Then the place was sold. He married Amanda Hale of Boxford who lived only a few years. All of this family are interred in a tomb in the Howard Street Cemetery in Salem. There were three owners of this tomb. Reed, Phipps and Kimball that are recalled. There was another owner.

Dorcas Foster Kimball continued to live in the Salem home until her death in the fall of 1877 at the age of 86. At her death she gave the place to Aunt Marsh, who gave it to her brother Alfred. Aunt Marsh married Rev. Henry Marsh, an Episcopal rector. Before this she was a milliner in Salem. When she decided to marry and become a Minister's wife, she decided she needed more education and went to "Wheaton" for a year. She always did very fine needlework and is remembered for the hats she made for her nieces. A sampler she made belongs to Elizabeth B. Sawyer and is at Journey's End in Boxford. For a short time after her marriage, she and her husband had a boarding school for small children in New York City. Then he was settled in Bloomfield, New Jersey and there he died. She then went to New York City and was superintendent of a home for young ladies at 27 North Washington Square. She was there until her death in 1898. Aunt Marsh was a very much beloved aunt, who visited her sister Dorcas in Boxford every June.

Mary Elizabeth, the second daughter married William Knapp very much earlier and had three children, Sarah, (called "Sis",) Samuel Worcester and Harry. She lived in various places in Salem, Boxford and finally in Cliftondale. They owned a place on Broadway, where Aunt Mary Barnes Sawyer lived before she went to California. Aunt Knapp had very little of this world's goods; her sister, Aunt Marsh, helped her a great deal. Her son Harry went west before 1900, he had children. Samuel W., or "Wos" married but had no family to live. He and his sister died quite young.

Dorcas Foster Kimball, the oldest girl, learned to be a tailor. She always did very fine sewing. Much of the time before she was married, she was at Boxford helping to care for her maternal grand-parents. There she met Benjamin Spofford Barnes, whom she married Nov. 5, 1840. It is said that they were a very handsome couple. Her wedding dress and bonnet were of a pongee colored silk and he had an embroidered vest.

ANDREW FOSTER ANCESTRY

Andrew Foster of Andover is not of the line of Reginald Foster of Ipswich. It is said he was born in 1579, but we think this is wrong since he died in Andover in 1685. His wife was Ann who died there in 1692. They had two children, Abraham born 1648 and Mary born 1652.

This son Abraham married in 1681 in Andover Esther Foster born 1659, who was a daughter of Deacon Samuel Foster, 1619-1702, and his wife Esther Kemp, who died 1702. Abraham and Esther Foster had three children, Esther, the oldest, married Daniel Kimball in 1712. They were our ancestors.

INGALLS ANCESTRY

The first Ingalls was Edmund who came with Gov. Endicott in 1628. In 1629 he was in Lynn, its first shoemaker. He was drowned in the Saugus River while going to Boston on horse-back. His heirs recovered damages. He was born in 1598 and died 1648. His wife was Ann. Their son Henry who was born in Engalnd in 1627 married Ann Osgood of Andover in 1650. He was one of the first settlers of Andover, where he died at 92 years. He bought his land of the Indians, paying for it with clothing and trinkets. He lived in Ipswich 1648 to 1652 and was in Andover from 1652 until his death in 1719. He was made a freeman 1673. His wife died 1686 leaving twelve children. In 1689 he married Sarah Abbott, a widow. He gave his homestead to his son James to provide for his widow.

Son James Ingalls was our ancestor, born 1669. In 1695 he married Hannah Abbott of Andover and they had nine children. Mehitable was the seventh. She married Daniel Kimball in 1736, and so became one of our ancestors. It is thought they lived near Ingalls Crossing in Andover.

ABBOTT ANCESTRY

George Abbott came to Rowley with his three sons, George, Nehemiah and Thomas in the very early days. Nothing is known of his wife. He died in 1647. His son George was born in England about 1631 and came to Andover 1655, where he married 1658 Sarah Farnum of Andover, daughter of Ralph Farnum and Elizabeth. She was born in Andover in 1638. George Abbott was a tailor and husbandman, much respected in the community. He was sexton of the North Meeting House in Andover. There were ten children, the sixth was Hannah, born 1668 who married James Ingalls. George Abbott's widow married 1689 Henry Ingalls, who was her daughter Hannah's father-in-law. Sarah Farnum Abbott Ingalls died in 1728. We are descended from James Ingalls.

STEVENS ANCESTRY

John Stevens, our immigrant ancestor, was baptized at Caversham, Oxford, England 1606 and died at Andover 1662. His father was John who died in 1627 and his mother was Alice Atkins. John the son married April 1638 in England Elizabeth Parker. That same month they sailed in the ship Confidence from Southampton. It was a ship of 200 tons with 110 passengers. With John was his wife, his mother, his brother William and two servants. He settled first at Newbury, where he was a freeman. But soon after he went to Andover where he lived ever after. His wife died 1694. There were eight children, the oldest child, Lieut. John Stevens was born 1639 and married 1662 Hannah Barnard, daughter of Robert Barnard and Joanna Harvey. She had six children and died in 1675 and the next year he married Esther Barker and had seven children. He lost his life in Casco Bay 1689.

John Stevens of the third generation was born 1663, the oldest child. He lived in Andover and married Ruth Poor in 1689 and had eight children. Their oldest was John born 1690 and died 1763. He married Elizabeth Chandler in 1717. She died 1738, having had ten children. He died 1763.

The ninth child born in Andover 1735 was Beamley, also spelled Bimley or Bimsley. We know very little about this family. His wife was Rebeckah and there were nine children born in Andover between 1759 and 1779. The oldest was Mary who married Daniel Kimball. One record says Mary was of Merrimack when she married Daniel Kimball. Bradford was sometimes called Merrimack. It is from this Mary Stevens we are descended. Bimsly Stevens was in the Revolutionary War.

DANIEL POOR ANCESTRY

Daniel Poor was fourteen years old when he came from Southampton in the Bevis in 1638. In Boston in 1650 he married Mary Farnum. She was a daughter of Ralph Farnum and Elizabeth of Andover. Ralph died 1692 and his wife 1710. It was their daughter Sarah born 1638 who married George Abbott and James Ingalls. Mary was an older sister of Sarah, she was born in 1629.

Daniel Poor and Mary Farnum had ten children, the eighth was Ruth born 1665 who married our ancestor John Stevens.

CHANDLER ANCESTRY

William Chandler, the immigrant, was baptized 1595 Bishops, Stratford, England and died 1642 in Roxbury, Mass.

He married first Alice Thorogood who died June 1625; he married second Annis Bayford, daughter of Francis and Johan Bayford, born 1603. He came to America in 1637 with his wife and four children. In 1643 Annis Chandler married John Dane and later for her third husband, John Parmenter. William Chandler was made a freeman 1640. They lived in Roxbury. He was a pointer, that is he made points which were lace tags to fasten clothing, used before they had buttons. Their son is called Capt. Thomas Chandler. He was born in England in 1631. In 1645 he was living in Andover. He was a blacksmith and iron worker. In 1678 and 79 he was a representative to the General Court. He married Hannah Brewer, daughter of Daniel. There were five children. Thomas Chandler died in 1702 and his wife 1717 in Andover.

Thomas Chandler of the next generation was born in Andover 1664 and died there 1737. In 1686 he married Mary Peters of Andover who died in 1750. There were five children, Elizabeth born 1693 married John Stevens and so became our ancestor.

PETERS ANCESTRY

Andrew Peters lived in Ipswich from 1658 to 1686, when he moved to Andover, where he lived until he died in 1713. He was born in 1636. His wife was Mercy Beamsley, daughter of William Beamsley and Mercy. She was born 1637 and died 1726. William Beamsley was a member of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery of Boston.

Andrew Peters' daughter Mary married 1686 in Andover Thomas Chandler and so became our ancestor.

FOSTER GENEALOGY

Reginald Foster, the immigrant, came to Ipswich. He was born in Devonshire, England, 1595 and died 1681. He was a yeoman.

Abraham Foster, one of his sons was born in England in 1622. He came with his father to Ipswich at sixteen years of age and lived there. He joined the church in 1674. He was a yeoman. In 1655 he married Lydia Burbank, daughter of John and Jemima Burbank of Rowley. She was born 1624. There were ten children, the first was Ephriam born 1657, who was our ancestor.

Ephraim Foster came to North Andover about 1677. He was a blacksmith, also excelled as a scribe. In 1677 he married Hannah Eames of Boxford, who was born 1661. She died 1731 and in 1732 he married Mrs. Mary West of Bradford. He died 1746. There were twelve children, the sixth was John born 1690.

John Foster, our ancestor, is called Capt. John. In 1714 or 15 he married Rebecca Rowland, who was born in Gloucester in 1694. The name is also given as Roe, Rowe and Rowlandson. She must have died as a young woman, for in 1732 he married Dorcas Hovey of Boston. He died in 1778. There were three children, John, the oldest, our ancestor was born in Andover in 1716.

This John Foster was a blacksmith, lived in Andover, now North Andover. He was killed by lightning. He and another man were mowing. A sudden shower came up. They hung their scythes up in a tree and stood under the tree and both were killed by a bolt of lightning. In 1740 John Foster married Deborah Barker born 1717. There were eight children, the youngest was our John Foster born in Andover in 1760.

This John Foster, the third in the line is the one who came to Boxford. His home was where Deacon John W. Parkhurst now lives. John Foster was at Lexington April 19, 1775. He went from Andover and was gone one and one-half days. At two different periods later he was in the Army. In 1782 he married Dorcas Towne, she was born 1758. There were five children born in Boxford. The oldest was Joseph, always called Uncle Joe, a bachelor, he was the last of the family to live there. The next child was Jemima who married a Hale and lived in Rindge; Dorcas was the third child, she was our ancestor, the one who married Alfred Kimball and lived in Salem. Jonas was the fourth child, he was a sea captain, he married first Mary Apthrop and later . His first wife was Elizabeth B. Sawyer's great grandmother on her father's side. The youngest child of John Foster was Moody, who lived in Salem and married a Simonds. Charles Albert Read of Salem is a descendant of that family.

Dorcas, daughter of John and Dorcas Towne Foster was born in 1791, and married Alfred Kimball in 1817. As a child she lived with her Uncle Ephriam Foster at what is now Harry Cole's residence.

Her father and Ephriam were brothers and her mother and Aunt Sarah were sisters. They had no children. Dorcas Foster attended Franklin Academy in Andover. She made a very fine sampler in 1803 that belongs to her great, great grand-daughter Dorcas Mason Ryan. Dorcas Foster taught school in Rowley, in Rooty Plain so called. Her granddaughter, Ellen Barnes Sawyer, taught in the same school many years later. Also after her marriage to Alfred Kimball she had a school for colored children in her home on Federal Street, Salem.

Before Uucle Ephraim Foster died he gave his niece a string of gold beads that the writer has had for many years. Dorcas Foster Kimball had a set of pink luster china. She used it constantly in her later years and gave several of the smaller pieces to members of the family. Dorcas Mason Ryan has what is left of that china. Dorcas Foster Kimball attended the Tabernacle Church in Salem and was at the meeting when Harriet Newell and Anne Judson, with their husbands were commissioned to go as the first missionaries to India. Hannah Dana Carr lived with Dorcas Kimball when she needed help as an old lady.

Aunt Judith Foster lived with her brother Ephraim Foster in Boxford. Some of the family have spoons with her initials also some very nice weaving that she did. She is usually called Aunt Judy. Ephraim and Sarah Towne Foster adopted a child by the name of Cole and gave him their place. When a little girl Dorcas Kimball came from Salem and lived there one winter while a little girl of that family went to Salem for the winter.

EAMES ANCESTRY

Robert Eames was one of the earliest inhabitants of Boxford, living near the Andover line. Before 1651 he came to Charlestown from Boxford, England. In 1692 he was a selectman. In 1661 he married Rebecca Blake, daughter of George and Dorothy Blake. Rebecca was born 1641 and died 1721. They had eight children, Hannah who married Ephraim Foster was the oldest.

Rebecca Eames was arrested as a witch tried and condemned Sept. 17, 1692 and was reprieved July 22, 1693. Read about the trial in the History of Boxford and the Foster Genealogy.

ROWLAND ANCESTRY

This name is also given as Rowe, Roe and Rowlandson.

John Rowland died in Gloucester in 1662. His wife was Bridget and he had two sons, John and Hugh. Bridget married for her second husband, William Colman.

John Rowland, Jr. was born about 1640. He lived in Gloucester. In 1673 he became a freeman. He married first 1663 Mary Dickinson and second 1684 Sarah Reddington born 1654. They had four children, the youngest born about 1694 was Rebecca, who married Capt. John Foster. He died Sept. 1700 and Sarah Feb. 1701.

The Reddingtons were among the first settlers of Boxford. Sarah was the daughter of Abraham who died in 1697 and Margaret his wife who died 1694.

The first settler of the present town of Boxford was undoubtedly Abraham Reddington. His name first appears in 1645 when his first child was born. He was the leading spirit of the village and wealthiest of the early settlers.

BARKER ANCESTRY

Richard Barker and his wife Joanna were in Andover as early as 1643. He was an husbandman. He died in 1693 and his wife in 1687. There were nine children.

Edmund his son lived in Topsfield, he was one of the committee from Topsfield, who in 1675 during King Phillip's War presented a petition to the General Court for leave to form military companies to protect the people from the Indians while at work. Edmund Towne married 1652 Mary Browning. daughter of Thomas Browning. There were ten children, the fifth was Joseph, born 1661 in Topsfield. All we know about him is that in 1687 he married Amy Smith born 1668. She was a daughter of Robert Smith, (1626-1693) and Mary French. They had eight children. His wife Amy died in Andover 1756 or 66.

Nathan Towne was one of the older children of Joseph and Amy. He was born in Topsfield in 1693 and lived in Boxford for a time, then moved to Andover. In 1713 he married Phebe Curtis born 1690 Topsfield. She died 1762 in Andover and he later. There were nine children, Joseph, born 1718 was the oldest son. He was born in Topsfield but married and lived in Andover. In 1747 he married Sarah Kimball who was a daughter of Daniel Kimball and Esther Foster. They had eight children. Their son Simeon Towne was in the Revolutionary War. Joseph went from Topsfield to Lexington on the 19th of April 1775. He was gone five days. Their daughter Sarah married Ephraim Foster and lived in Boxford and daughter Dorcas married John Foster and lived in Boxford. John and Dorcas were married in 1782, and it is from them that we are descended. The family name of Dorcas starts here with Dorcas Towne, who was born in 1758 and died in 1838. One of that name in every generation since. The youngest, Margaret Dorcas Ryan, born 1952.

Dorcas Foster, born 1791, daughter of John and Dorcas Foster married her second cousin Alfred Kimball.

Dorcas Towne Foster did a great deal of weaving and many in the family have pieces of her handiwork. At one time she wished to have some teacups that were decorated, so she wove a piece of linen, took it to Haverhill and exchanged it for a set of tea cups. They are very pretty with a little sprig of rose buds, no handles and a deep saucer. The writer has one. At another time she wanted a muff, so she raised six black cats, then smothered them, cured the fur and made a very large black muff. At another time while the men were away at work Indians came to the door demanding cider. She lit a candle, started down cellar to get it for them and while their backs were turned, she set fire to their hair, whereupon, they ran screaming from the house and were seen no more.

CURTIS ANCESTRY

William Curtis and his wife, who was Sarah Elliott, came over on the Lyon in 1631 and settled in Roxbury.

John Curtis was their son who died in 1733 in Topsfield. He married 1672 Topsfield, Mary Looke, who was born 1647 and died 1745. They had ten children. Phebe was one of these children. She married Nathan Towne in 1713 and thus became an ancestor.

LOOKE ANCESTRY

Thomas Looke was one of the original employees at the Saugus Iron Works in 1643. In 1673 he removed to Rowley, working in another mine. Mary Looke who married John Curtis was a daughter of Thomas Looke.
